Thursday February 19th

"Smart Management of horses in tough economic times"

Speaker: Guido van der Hoeven, Extension Specialist - NCSU

With the current economic situation, properly caring for your horses may be becoming challenging. Come out and listen to an expert offer suggestions on ways to manage your horses without having to break the bank. Tips and suggestions on what not to cut from the budget and ways to save on what you have to spend will be shared.

Thursday February 26th

"Fire Ants: Control them in your horse pastures"

Speaker: Dr. Mike Stringham, Extension Entomologist- NCSU

As Franklin County becomes home to more and more of these unwelcome guests, learning to control and prevent the spread of Fire Ants has become an issue. An expert in the field will share tips and treatment regimens that horse owners can use on their farms.

Thursday March 5th

"Dealing with common equine behavior issues"

Speaker: Lawson Walston, Manager-NCSU Equine Educational Unit

A well-behaved horse is a happy horse. Sometimes as horse owners, we forget about this aspect of our horses' daily care. Come and learn some simple tips that you can use with your horses to overcome common behavior problems.

Thursday March 12th

"What constitutes a true equine emergency"

Speaker: Dr. Shelley Whitehurst, Neuse River Veterinary Services

We always wonder, "Do I need to call the vet" when our horses have an accident. Come and listen to practical advice from an area Veterinarian on when a situation might warrant a farm call and what situations you can probably take care of on your own.

THANKS FOR COMING!

A special THANKS to all speakers for making time in their schedules to be with us.
